Upcycling remains of weapons of conflict into jewelry in Cambodia, Forrest Curran has tied social giving to design, working with local fair-trade artisans to turn a tragedy of the past into a vehicle of change. The book explores his thoughts in depth into the conversation about self-love, written during the years of inception of the project. This book documents moments of Forrest s around the world as he developed the Purple Buddha Project through a collection of poems, essays, and narratives describing the lessons learned abroad along the journey; fundamentally demystifying the notion that we aren t in control - primarily focusing on the importance of the present moment as well as what it means to have esteem.
