Neuware - Essay from the year 2012 in the subject History - Miscellaneous, grade: 78%, University of Exeter, language: English, abstract: The religious and constitutional struggle of the Thirty Years War was one of the longest and most destructive conflicts in modern history. The period leading up to the war was characterised simultaneously by an extreme piety and increasing confessional divide in the empire, yet in its numerous theological, political and legal forms, the confessional conflict alone cannot be considered the sole cause of the conflagration. A myriad of structural factors led to the disabling and ultimately destructive breakdown of the Imperial constitution by 1618. Socio-economic considerations and various political factors are emphasised to varying degrees by historians from differing backgrounds and schools of thought. The historiographical debate identifies several potential groups to blame in causing the crisis, highlighting either the rivalry between the territorial princes for dominance in the Empire, or the continuous power struggle between the princes and the Emperor. The outbreak of war must also be seen within the political context of European power...
